Set in the future, in which you control a "Mauler" Assault Tank in one of 16 missions, in a war fought between two dominant races of the New World. Such are the defensive capabilities of the opposing armies that any offensive moves must entail "behind the lines" actions performed by elite troops in specially designed vehicles. The Mauler is the latest such machine capable of being lifted in and out of hostile territory and armed with the most advanced weaponry. Select your mission and the armoury you will require. The 360 radar sweep, in and out of cockpit views and area maps showing terrain, and complete theatre of operations, all combine to give a full picture of the battle as you strive for victory in a 3D arena where tactics go hand in hand with lightning reflexes and a true-grit determination.

The Lords Of Midnight

FULL GAME

Originally released in the middle of 1984, The Lords Of Midnight remains one of the greatest games ever conceived. Never re-released and never included on any compilation — this is your first chance to play it.

Conceived in 1984, The Lords Of Midnight was the first chap to complete it. Robin Candy as he unravels the mysteries of the lands of Midnight!

The aim of the game is simple: overthrow the evil witchking Doomdark and restore peace to the lands of Midnight.

At the beginning of the game the player controls four characters:

- Luxor the Mooprinse, his son Morkin. As a Moonprince Luxor owns the Moon Ring which lends him powers of vision and command. Other characters can be recruited using already loyal characters. In a relatively short space of time it's possible to amass quite a large army.
- The Moon Ring also acts as a shield against the Ice Fear. The closer a character or army is to Luxor the less will be the demoralising effect of the Ice Fear. There's only one disadvantage: Doomdark can sense the warmth generated by the Moon Ring so always knows the precise whereabouts of the wearer.
- Morkin is the only character in Midnight who is able to resist the influence of the Ice Fear thus enabling him to embark on dangerous missions right into the heart of Doomdark's territory without being demoralised.
- The evil Doomdark

There are two ways to defeat Doomdark. The first is to destroy the Ice Crown, the source of Doomdark's power. This can only be achieved by Morkin. The Ice Crown is located at the Tower of Doom near Doomdark's main stronghold of Ushgarak on the Plains of Despair. This task is more like an adventure and places the emphasis on stealth rather than military might.

The second is to actually seize the Citadel of Ushgarak. This requires many lords, complete with armies, to be recruited. The full scale military campaign is the more difficult and time consuming of the two tasks. However, the flexibility of The Lords Of Midnight allows the player to adjust strategies at a moment's notice.

For Doomdark to win he must accomplish two of three goals:

- Firstly, kill Morkin — as long as Morkin is alive the game continues. Secondly, either kill Luxor or capture the Citadel of Xajorkith (located at the south of the map). Should Luxor be killed, the player loses control over all other characters except Morkin. Morkin can only regain control over the other recruited characters by finding the Moon Ring. Unfortunately, as soon as Morkin puts on the Moon Ring Doomdark is immediately aware of his whereabouts thus making the quest for the Ice Crown all but impossible.

THE PEOPLE OF MIDNIGHT

The Lords Of Midnight boasts 4000 locations and 32,000 different views. The screen displays the eye view from the location of the current character in the direction they're facing. Whenever a character moves to a different location or changes the direction they're facing the screen updates to show the new view.

The game proceeds by day and night. During the day you can move any or all of the characters (along with any armies they control) under your banner. The distance a character can move depends on a combination of the type of terrain they're moving across, their general health plus whether they are walking or riding.

Whenever a character moves N, S, E, W, NE, SE, SW or NW they move a distance of one league. If they move diagonally (NE, SE, SW or NW) they travel 1.4 leagues. Therefore moving diagonally takes more time and leaves less hours of daylight for the rest of their journey. Once a character has used all their daylight hours or engaged one of Doomdark's armies in battle, the screen goes dark indicating night. Except under exceptional circumstances, that character cannot do anything until the next day. Once you've moved all the characters you wish, press the NIGHT key. The outcome of any battles is shown at dawn.

HOW THE GAME WORKS

- The people of Midnight can be broken down into three rough categories: the Foul, the Free and the Fey.
- The Foul consist of Doomdark's loyal guards and warriors. There are 250,000 of these and none of them can be recruited to your course.
- There are numerous Lords of the Free. Generally these can be located at citadels in the south of Midnight and some keep. Any of these Lords can be recruited by Luxor and usually by any other Lord of the Free recruited to Luxor's banner. The Lords recruited from keeps have smaller armies and are less useful in a fight than those from Citadels.
- The Fey live exclusively in the forests of Midnight. They don't like to meddle in the affairs of the Free but have no love for Doomdark. The Fey can only really be railed by other Fey. The player should make this Corieth's task.
- The Fey can move through forests far faster than any other characters in Midnight. It's also worth noting that Doomdark's armies are not keen on venturing into forests.

GETTING STARTED

The game begins with your four characters at the Tower of the Moon, in the Forest of Shadows (western side of the map). It's best to start the game trying to achieve both objectives, that way you keep your options open just in case something goes wrong. The best way for Morkin to approach the Tower of Doom is from the western side of the map. Farflame the Dragonlord and Fawkrin the Skuikrin can aid Morkin in his quest and both of these characters can be located along this route. Farflame can be found at the Tower of Dodrak in the Mountains of Dodrak while Fawkrin is usually to be found wandering around the Plains of the Moon (Moon henge is a good place to look).

It's also worth taking a stroll through the Forest of Lothoril to recruit Lord Lothoril who can provide a small army for Morkin's protection. The final journey to the Tower of Doom must be made by Morkin alone. Any armies that follow Morkin risk being spotted by Doomdark's forces and putting the mission in jeopardy. When controlling Morkin it's a good idea to avoid fighting anything, from Doomdark's armies to wolves, dragons or Skuikrin. When embarking on military victory the first thing to do is recruit as many Lords and armies as possible. It's impossible to defend each citadel and keep from Doomdark's forces so for the bulk of the game you're going to have to let Doomdark run amok and seize most of them. This also has the bonus of spreading Doomdark's forces over a wide area.

The best strategy for recruiting a large number of Lords and armies quickly is to split up your characters and send them in different directions. As you recruit more characters send them in different directions to recruit other characters. In this way, you can sweep the south of Midnight for characters and armies within a matter of days.

When you feel you've recruited enough Lords and armies, choose a rendezvous point (the Citadel of Ithrom on the Plains of Ithril is a good one). Rest all your characters here then push on to Ushgarak, making sure to rest your characters at regular intervals so they're prepared for the final fight.

For instance, at the start of the game send Corieth a few leagues north into the Forest of Shadows. Here he finds Lord Shadows — recruit him. Shadows can be used as an escort for Morkin. Then send Corieth to the Forest of Whispers to recruit Lord Thrall and up to the Forest of Whispers to recruit Lord Whispers. Finally onto the Citadel of Ithrom to await other Lords and armies.

Rorthron should be sent NE to recruit Lord Blood then the pair should then be sent SE to recruit Shimeril. Avoid taking any armies or characters up through the gap between the mountains of Dodrak and Ithril. Doomdark has a huge force stationed here which rapidly advances south, decimating anything in its path.

Someone should be sent to the Citadel of Dreams to recruit Lord Dreams before going to Ithrom, while the others should go to the Mountains of Kumar to recruit the Lords Marakith, Kumar and Herath. When taking Lord Dreams to the Citadel of Ithrom, pick up Lord Adhoril from the Downs of Athoril on your way back.

Luxor should be sent SE to recruit Mitharg then SW to recruit Gard. Now take Luxor E to Xajorkith recruiting, any Lords on the Way.

If you're after a quick military victory, Xajorkith will have to be abandoned. A substantial force is required to defend Xajorkith and leaving such an army behind would severely reduce your effectiveness at fighting through to Ushgarak. However, as Doomdark takes more and more of Midnight, the Ice Fear grows stronger.

Take Luxor through the Forest of Dregrim and recruit the Lord Dregrim before approaching the Utarg of Utarg. Then head on up to Ithrom.

Once all your armies (or all the armies you're using for the military campaign) have assembled at Ithrom, spend some time reorganising armies so the bravest Lords have the largest armies.

Once you're completely rested you are ready for the final assault on Doomdark. Good luck — you're going to need lots of it.

The Bobby Yazz Show * Full Game!

COMEBACK TV

Game One: Colour Level

Here you have to race your craft over the grid of squares turning over the squares so they change from one colour to another. Don’t worry if you run over a previously coloured square because it won’t be affected.

Do worry about the pesky remotes Bobby Yazz introduces — they fly across the grid reversing any changed squares! However, they’re not deadly and can be eliminated by running into them.

There’s a time limit to play against — change over all the squares and head for the exit square before the time runs out. Squares appear if you’re travelling in the correct direction and, erm, don’t if you’re not.

GAME TWO: BLIND LEVEL

There are no visible squares! Only your remote and an arrow indicating where the exit square is hiding. Try and find the way out of the maze by moving in every conceivable direction before the time runs out. Squares appear if you’re travelling in the correct direction and, erm, don’t if you’re not.

GAME THREE: KEY LEVEL

Here your goal is to collect key squares (red squares with a white centre) from around the maze-like grid within — quelle surprise — a time limit. Watch out for the other remotes that swarm around the grid. They’re deadly to touch on these levels so avoid them!

GAME FOUR: BONUS

Time to tackle a maze grid again — this time with the objective of collecting as many green tiles as possible. Not as easy as it sounds: the green tiles revolve (usually just as soon as you come close to them!). Don’t worry about failing this level as you only lose your bonus. If you survive the game first time around, it’s repeated — only tougher!

FLOATING ICONS

 Sting, Bos • protects your craft against opponents on the Key levels

TANTALISING TILES

In the Colour and Key levels there are tiles that appear to help or hinder your progress and they are...

A cross means instant loss of life and takes you back to the start of a level. A letter O resets the level but not time — arrrgh! A G means glue and you’re stuck in a sticky moment. A ? means extra points. An up arrow means advance to next level and there’s also a tile which provides an extra life — you’ll know it when you see it!

SPEED UP provides your craft with effective go-faster stripes

GUN enables you to fire a limited number of shots at opposing craft

BULB illuminates the Blind level for a short period of time

CONTROLS

Get a grip on the game show using keyboard or joystick controls. There’s an option for a Kempston joystick interface and by using the redefine keys option you can program controls for Sinclair and Cursor sticks (and define your own playing keys, obviously!)

YAZZ: ON AIR FOR THE FIRST TIME!

Crumbly CRASH readers (well, at least those going back to Issue 57) will remember The Bobby Yazz Show’s review — an 85% rated game, just a smidgeon off being a Smash.

But — calamity — Bobby Yazz never made it to the shops because the publishing company, Destiny, disappeared without a trace.

But then CRASH’s old programming chum and creator of Bobby Yazz, Chris Urquart (programmer of many an Ocean game and author of the brilliant Powertape shoot-em-up Master Blaster), decided the Specsy games-playing world shouldn’t be deprived of such an addictive game and promptly gave it to CRASH! Well, a rousing ‘Hurrahl’ for you, Chris, for being such an ace lush-cake.

SAM COUPE PLAYABLE DEMO

* Ready for take off? You’ll better be ‘cos we’re about to take SAM COUP owners flying high with this fab playable (or should that be ‘flyable’) demo of Digital Integration’s F-16 Combat Pilot!

* You don’t need a pilot’s licence to play this demo — everything’s been simplified so you can just take off and fly around the scenery. The graphics representing objects can be displayed either in solid 3D or simplified vector graphics — press P to toggle between them.

All the details for playing the demo and information on the F-16 itself can be found on the scrolling message at the beginning of the game. When that’s over, press Q to continue.

To define a sample block, simply move the dotted cursor with the left/right cursor keys to the required position on the waveform bar and press 1 to mark the start and 2 to mark the end of the sample block.

To perform the command you care for a nice cuppa? Endless sampling larks for all the family!

• And that’s it! Now you can convince granny that computers talk by sampling ‘Hello there, grandmother-type person, would you care for a nice cuppa?’ Endless sampling larks for all the family!

• Remember, if you have a utility or creative software program you’ve written and would like to share with the CRASH viewers, send it in to Tech Niche at the usual Powertape address (and don’t forget the coupon!).
Instant fame could be yours if you’ve written a Speccy game that’s up to Powertape standard. Yes, we’re on the hunt for the best games from the creative talents of CRASH readers. There have been loads of excellent games over the past few months that have appeared on the tape. Breaking into the glamorous world (‘hem ‘hem) of Speccy publishing couldn’t be easier! Just send us your game on cassette or disks, with a letter explaining the gameplay and if it passes the reviewers’ tests we’ll put it on the Powertape! Having a cow on the Speccy
(The Simpsons are coming!)

Bart Simpson and his revolution against idealised images of domestic bliss are heading towards your Speccy screens this autumn with the release of The Simpsons' game: Bart Vs The Space Mutants! Triffic, eh?

It's an arcade adventure starring you as Bart, the world's greatest under-achiever, and his bizarre family of yellow, erm, people (?). Bart's town of Springfield has been invaded by yucky space mutants with dangly bits who are taking over the bodies of Springfield's residents. Bart's in a bit of a pickle because he's the only person that knows of this (thanks to his X-ray specs) and, due to the fact he's always telling porkies, no-one believes him. The young Simpson sets out on his own to vanquish the mutants (by leaping on their heads, of all the preposterous things).

It's a five-level game, based on the Nintendo version raved over by console players, and we'll be checking out the Speccy version next issue. So, get ready to get everyone playing 'Happy Families' with the Simpsons, coming this September from Ocean (who the hell else?!)

Come and work for CRASH!

Finally! A TV Computer Games Show!

That's right, your eyes are not deceiving you — there is a TV show being planned about computer games! Hurrah! And it's not going to be anything like Micro Live and concentrate on the BBC Micro or anything! No, it's planned to cover all sorts of gaming on computer, console and in the arcades!

GamesMaster (that's the title of the show) is being aired on Channel Four in January running on Tuesdays at 6.35pm. The series is being put together by production company Hewland International who currently produce the great sports show Good Sport currently on BBC 1.

The show is planned to feature reviews, charts, news, tips and play-offs between top players. So, they're looking for top players to complete — if you reckon you're up to scratch why not drop them a line? Or, if you're after a full-time job, Hewland are also looking for researchers and professional graphic artists. Again contact Hewland with your relevant details and a CV. Contact: Yvonne Watson, Hewland International, Unit One, Indescon Court, Mill Harbour, London E14 9TN.

It's the Mega Twins! 15 years old and looking for stone (?!)

Most peculiar, isn't it? A couple of 15-year-olds looking for a stone. Maybe they want to have it as a pet, perhaps? Far more practical than, say, a tortoise (and they look the same anyway). The thing is, dear viewer, that it's not any old stone. No, what they're after is a stone called the Dragon Blue Eyes stone. This Dragon Blue Eyes stone sounds a bit mystical and — blimey! — it is! It can save the world, only it's lost, which sounds spookily like the cue to say: it's all happening in US Gold's forthcoming release Mega Twins, based on the Capcom coin-op! The stone needs to be found to rejuvenate the decimated land of Alurea destroyed by a terrible monster. Only the Mega Twins survived the attack (being babes nipped away at the time) and 15 years later they set out on a quest to revenge the massacre of their people and try and put the world back in order again. Take control of the twins as they dash through six levels of scrollarama arcade action set in fantasy landscape with all manner of foe against you. You'll be battling through forests, swimming through underwater scenes and even take to the air in a sky-high level! It's all out in November, which should please Sam Stephenson of Northampton (see Forum).

If you're 20 or over and looking for a serious full-time job, there's one going here at CRASH. We're looking for a Software Editor (with aspirations to be an Editor). You need to have a good knowledge of the English language (how to use and abuse it), you need to be confident, outgoing, able to communicate (on the phone, visiting) with anyone and have organisational and administrative skills. A driving licence would be useful as would knowing lots of crap jokes. The job's based here in Ludlow (it's really nice) and salary is determined by age and experience. Reckon you're up to it? Contact: Newsfield, Richard Eddy, CRASH, Ludlow, Shropshire SY8 1JW with your CV. We'll make you a star!

A beginner's guide to the Sega Game Gear

It's the latest console sensation that's sweeping the nation! Sega's latest addition to its popular console family hit the streets this summer. It's called the Game Gear and it's a portable full-colour hand-held game system (ie, a console you can carry around and play!).

- It's really compact, measuring a tidy 210mm x 110mm x 40mm! The Game Gear's main attraction is its back-lit colour LCD screen. Capable of displaying 32 on-screen colours, from a palette of 4096, it has a clear display that doesn't blur, even with lots of animated graphics!

- Hurrah! Fab Sega games come on small, sturdy cartridges and you can play Mickey Mouse, Super Monaco GP, Wonder Boy and Columns. And before the year's over you can get hold of Ninja Gaiden, Golden Axe, Gin Shinobi, Out Run and loads more!

- You can plug things in like headphones to hear the four-channel stereo sound — the tiny mono speaker encased in the console isn't much cop!

- In November, Sega are releasing a TV tuner so, for about £70, you can transform your console into a pocket TV!

- Raid your piggy bank and extract £9.99 — that'll buy you the basic Game Gear pack with console, manual and carrying strap! And then go back to your piggy bank and grab some more dosh for a game (between £19.99 and £24.99) and batteries which aren't supplied!

- Is it super-duper? Yes it is! The Ed's got one and most of the art department want one! And — behold! — we've got five to give away in the compo on page 91!

Win! One of these Beashu joysticks!

- Hello! We're the new collection of joysticks from Euromax Electronics. We're part of the groovy American Beashu rage and work with the Speccy (as long as you've got one of those interface things plugged in). Hot Stuff, the pink one, costs £9.95, Zoomer (the yolk controller) costs £36.95 and the Ultimate (desktop 'stick) costs £31.95. And we're up for grabs in this little compo! Just tells us what sort of wood a stick for water divining is made from. Answers to: Newsfield, Joysticks Compo, CRASH, Ludlow, Shropshire SY8 1JW. Entries here by September 12, please!

Here, have 50p!

- Don't say we never give you anything!

  - Here's 50p — sort of. It's really 50p off the entry fee of the big September show — The European Computer Entertainment Show. The show's always heaps of fun and bulging at the seams with Europe's top software companies and all their wares (in glitteramavision). The show this year has its public days on Friday 6 September, Saturday 7 September and Sunday 8 September. Snip this coupon out, take it along to Earls Court II, London (where the show's held) and you'll have 50p knocked off the normal admission price of £7. It'll be chaos (it always is).
Closely following the plot of the movie, Darkman has you in the lead role as he fights his way through the game's six levels of scroll action. Essentially, it's an arcade combat game that throws up quite a challenge (and it's really good to look at, too).

The game begins in Chinatown where Darkman hears that arch baddie Robert G Durant is making a pick up of illicit drugs money — money Darkman needs to fund his synthetic skin project. So, with fedora hat firmly placed on head and overcoat flapping in the wind, it's off to battle.

Plenty of henchmen stand between you and the dough, most prolific are the heavy muscle squad who hit or shoot you. As they do this your energy level plummets and death swiftly follows, along with the dreaded Game Over message (it's pretty tough, y' see).

But Darkman isn't helpless: he can hit or kick his attackers and a couple of swift smacks round the mush is usually enough to deter them.

The game begins in Chinatown where Darkman hears that arch baddie Robert G Durant is making a pick up of illicit drugs money — money Darkman needs to fund his synthetic skin project. So, with fedora hat firmly placed on head and overcoat flapping in the wind, it's off to battle.

Plenty of henchmen stand between you and the dough, most prolific are the heavy muscle squad who hit or shoot you. As they do this your energy level plummets and death swiftly follows, along with the dreaded Game Over message (it's pretty tough, y' see).

But Darkman isn't helpless: he can hit or kick his attackers and a couple of swift smacks round the mush is usually enough to deter them.
Seeking revenge: the Darkman way

Hm's the energy bar (nice and full). Keep topped up by collecting the energy-giving heart icons that appear.

Here's the energy bar (nice and full). It can be kept topped up by collecting the energy-giving heart icons that appear.

The timer here counts down how long the mask stays in place for. Usually it's about one-and-a-half minutes.

This is where the mask appears. But, oh dear, it's just been all used up (now there's going to be trouble!)

Don't look down, it's a long way to the bottom (a very, very hard bottom — madam) — and it looks like Corky's about to force you to experience it first hand.

Grr! It's one of Durant's evil henchmen and he's about to throw a blow at Darkman (duck, you fool, duck!)

Here he is, it's Darkman (the detailed graphics do him justice, don't they?) and he'd better be ready with an attacking blow!

Hurrah for Darkman! A munching henchman who's has no chance of getting back on his feet.

These crates can block your way through the game. However, they can be clambered over, a la Navy SEALS.

Ten things that are very dark, man

1. A cat in a cool bucket
2. The inside of a tunnel
3. Ludlow after the tenth power cut of the day
4. The inside of Corky's bum
5. The cupboard under the stairs (that's scary)
6. Death By Chocolate (Julie's fave pud)
7. A large hole (with a cover on)
8. The inside of a lion's mouth
9. Lots and lots of Guinness (lubly lubdy — Ed)
10. Nick's mood when he came back from his hols

A really splendid game, big too, with an intense challenge

E is the night! He's a shadowy streak in the dangerous world of a man who does not exist? Nah, that's not right. He's crime's new enemy and justice's new face — yes! — that's who he is! Darkman has arrived.

The first level's flip-screen beat-'em-up gameplay is nothing new but still very playable, even though it can be frustratingly hard. The main sprite is very well drawn and animated, right down to his little faceless face (?), as are other sprites. Background graphics are very colourful and appealing, although they do get a little garish sometimes and hide the sprites. Darkman is a big game — huge even — but its extreme difficulty is very off-putting, otherwise it would be a classic.

Darkman is a big game - huge even — but its extreme difficulty is very off-putting, otherwise it would be a classic. 80% and very noisy fashion. By then Darkman is (hopefully) back on the roof...

Level five sees Darkman grabbing onto a handy rope and dangling below the chopper. Durant isn't too chuffed that he has an unwelcome guest and sends the chopper onto the vertically-scrolling freeway. If Darkman wants to avoid being embedded in the front of a passing juggernaut he has to swing left and right to avoid collision.

If Darkman can hang on long enough Durant's chopper crashes into a bridge while our hero leaps to safety. A third and final photo shoot takes Darkman to Durant's evil boss, Stack, who's kidnapped his girlfriend, Julie (don't panic. Nick, it isn't your your little love-bundle!).

STRACK 'EM HIGH

Darkman had better have a strong stomach because Stack has taken refuge on a skyscraper still under construction for the sixth and final level. Fight your way through Stack's horde to face the man who caused your deformity (and munch him into the ground).

Technically, Darkman is up to Ocean's high standards. The graphics are on the small side but well detailed and the title tune is a toe-tapping affair by the excellent Jonathan Dunn.

Playability suffers slightly because it's a tough game. It'll take ages just to reach the end of the first level! Even after several hours of intensive play, I'd only almost (but not quite) reached the briefcase full of money. The main culprits are the henchman: they take their jobs much too seriously and are forever bumping Darkman off.

Darkman is very, very good and is highly recommended for games players who want a serious challenge.
Ford, the man who embodied the dosh could persuade Harrison because there isn't one. No amount of punters would live on, he has to do so without Ford's help. Which isn't much of a problem at all, really. Y'see, punters, Indy's new adventure, Indiana Jones and the Fate of Atlantis, comes to life not only in a Dark Horse comic ('graphic novel', if you will) series but in two different computer games!

For once, we can't say 'from the film of the same name' because there isn't one. No amount of adventure could persuade Harrison because there isn't one. No amount of punters would live on, he has to do so without Ford's help. Which isn't much of a problem at all, really. Y'see, punters, Indy's new adventure, Indiana Jones and the Fate of Atlantis, comes to life not only in a Dark Horse comic ('graphic novel', if you will) series but in two different computer games!

Fate of Atlantis, the story, was created by Hal Barwood, a movie maker and games designer who works for Lucasfilm. Hal picked on the subject of Atlantis because it's the kind of bizarre quest Indy would embark on. Says Hal, 'In his new adventure, Indy walks that line between reality and myth — discovering the truth by following a trail of clues scattered all over the world and escaping danger by using his wit and his whip.'

The game Hal's creating is destined for play only on the PC, Amiga and ST, due to its complex adventure angle. However, US Speccy players are getting our own version thanks to Lucasfilm's UK chums, US Gold.

ACTION ALL THE WAY

Like The Last Crusade, US Gold's adaptation of Fate of Atlantis will be an action game but, unlike The Last Crusade, with a strong angle on puzzle solving and object manipulation. US Gold's game is taken from a design created by long-time software producer Jon Dean. Jon spent a lot of time with Lucasfilm in the States to ensure his game would follow Hal's Fate of Atlantis story. Lucasfilm wanted to make sure it wasn't 'just another' Indy-themed game that was churned out. Lucasfilm wanted some kind of edge.

For Fate of Atlantis, it's an extra dimension. The 3D (isometric perspective) arcade adventure promises to be state of the art. Unlike other isometric 3D games, you can change the viewpoint of the current scene to get a better view of the action — it's like being the director of an interactive movie! The display also features an inventory and a series of text messages so you know what's going on.

Fate of Atlantis' plot revolves the legendary but powerful city of Atlantis, site of an advanced civilization that sunk into the sea without a trace, to be lost forever...

OR WAS IT?!!

Now Indiana Jones suspects Atlantis wasn't a myth after all. A Nazi agent visited him at Barnett College and attempted to steal a statue. There was a fight; the agent escaped but left papers concerning Atlantis. Indy instantly realises a colleague is in danger — Sophia Hapgood was interested in Atlantis to the point of obsession and is an obvious target.

Indy goes visiting and together they uncover a fiendish plot: Dr Hans Ubermann, a Nazi physicist, is charged with building a nuclear weapon. From his reading on the subject, Ubermann suspects a mysterious metal that has connections with Atlantis — Orichalcum — could be of use. Of course, Sophia insists she help Indy foil the dastardly Nazi's plan and, after demonstrating her prowess in martial arts by kicking Indy's hat off, he agrees she should come (would you argue?).

Fate of Atlantis' plot revolves the legendary but powerful city of Atlantis, site of an advanced civilization that sunk into the sea without a trace, to be lost forever...
Now Sophia’s taken over and heading toward the roulette tables at the casino (and it looks like Indy’s getting involved in a punch-up!)

In classic Indy style, their quest takes them through Iceland, Leningrad, Spain and the Azore Islands. But the actual game doesn’t start until they arrive in Monte Carlo where they see Trottier, a playboy with an interest in Atlantis who has critical artefacts to sell to the highest bidder.

HIS OR HERs

During the game you can switch control between Indy and Sophia. Each have their own inventory and quite happily wander off when not under the player’s control. Using Indy and Sophia’s individual talents to tackle the many puzzles, the game’s most important objective is to reach Atlantis before the Nazis do.

Another smaller, but demanding, objective is watching over either character when you’re not controlling their actions — they tend to get in trouble when alone!

The game, although having puzzles, places the emphasis on action. So, expect lots of physical action with guns, knives and whips. Such actions are designed to merely wound the opponent, temporarily putting them out of action.

Neither Indy nor Sophia can actually be killed. However, they can get so weak (from attacks and failing to collect enough of the energy-giving Orichalcum) to be captured. If only one character is captured by Nazis, the other can perform a rescue bid but if both are slammed up it’s Game Over.

Fate of Atlantis’ 3D perspective is something that hasn’t been done well on the Speccy for a long time — not since the classics like Ultimate’s Knightlore and Alien 8, or Ocean’s Head Over Heels. But the graphics, designed by Nick Cook (Powdrift, Enduro Racer), look highly detailed and representative already and, according to Jon Dean, graphic development is set to continue until the game reaches its deadline for completion, which guarantees something pretty special! Let’s hope so, eh?

Find out in November when the Fate of Atlantis is revealed.

enemy guards are intelligent and wander freely around the whole level rather than being stuck in one location (ie, they give chase!).

Pheeeewp! On the sub

- Fight your way up to the bridge, take control of the sub and steer it toward your chosen island destination, based on the clues you’ve amassed so far. But that’s not all — there’s also a bomb, planted by mad Nazi Klaus Kerner, to be disarmed! And don’t forget to look out for Klaus himself!

Which island?

- All the island locations look alike and have to be carefully explored for clues. But the natives aren’t keen on Indy and Sophia sticking their noses in — what have they got to hide? This is pretty far into the game and wrong moves can be fatal (so why not use that handy save/load function the game’s equipped with?).

Finally! Atlantis!

- The place of mystery and beauty — it’ll take your breath away, splendid in its Minoan-style detail! And there’s a massive surprise in store for Indy and Sophia. Just like the movies, there’s a twist in the tale... (whatever can it be?).

- Breaking into the Nazi Naval Base, Indy faces tough opposition from the brute strength of the Nazi guards
Hudson Hawk

Hudson Hawk, the movie, was slated by the film critics but loved by the public: action, comedy and 'dreamboat' Willis in the starring role. Ocean, ever ready with a cheque book for film companies, snapped up the rights to turn it into a game, which should be on the shelves come September. RICHARD EDDY got on the blower to the programming team at Special FX.

Bruce Willis (now on your Speccy)!

In the movie, Willis plays the world's best cat burglar, the Hudson Hawk, who's just been released from Sing Sing prison and wants to go straight. It would be a bit boring if he did but — ta-da! — he doesn't! He's persuaded to return to his old profession and this time he's stealing museum pieces. It turns out Leonardo Da Vinci created a machine for turning lead into gold, but hid the most important parts in various artworks (and Hawk has to find them!).

The action begins at the Rutherford Auction House where a valuable art treasure, in a safe, is just waiting to be pinched. You control Hawk as he clambers over the roof of the opposite house, across a rope swing and breaks in to the Auction House through an unsecured window.

There's a large play area here — you have to explore all the floors and their rooms looking for a way to the seventh floor, where the safe is located. The gameplay through all three levels is of a platform-based arcade adventure style but there's a bit of combat in there too, as the building is swarming with security guards who don't take too kindly to Hawk's invasion.

Level three takes Hawk to the final stage of his mission — in Da Vinci's castle itself. Like the other locations you have to break into the building, here scaling the dangerous rooftops made up from platform ledges, rope swings and ladders. An opponent, armed with a tennis ball serving machine, attempts to knock you from each perch as you go. Timing your movement across the roof is essential.

Exploring the castle and locating the gold room is the primary objective. The gold room is the final screen and — boy! — wait 'till you see what devious puzzles await you in there!

Programmer Jim Bagley is currently beavering away on the game. He's got an impressive track record with smash hit games like Midnight Resistance and Cabal to his credit. Jim's gone for a cartoony look to the game, emphasising the comedy elements of the movie. Says Jim, it's really going to be a fun game, not too difficult — something everyone'll find playable and nearly everyone should be able to complete! Which is just the sort of game we like.

There are large play areas here — you have to explore all the floors and

Over at the Vatican

The Vatican is the location for level two and you break in via a subway and a series of air vents. In addition to housing his Popiness, the Vatican also has a wealth of valuable art treasures and the place is booby-trapped beyond belief to put off any intruders. Steam jets, wall-mounted spikes, fans and alarm pressure pads make the route a difficult one.

Add to that the most bizarre range of opponents you're ever likely to meet: Parachuting nuns throwing bombs and armed nuns on rollerskates.

There's also a puzzle element in the gameplay, as some rooms pose problems which need solving before progressing. In one room you have to collect and stack crates to reach an inaccessible doorway.

The objective is to locate and klept Da Vinci's code book hidden away in the depths of the Vatican.

DA VINCI'S DOMAINS

Level three takes Hawk to the final stage of his mission — in Da Vinci's castle where the battlements are littered with handy platforms for Hawk to leap about on — watch out for the floating guard, though!

Da Vinci's castle where the battlements are littered with handy platforms for Hawk to leap about on — watch out for the floating guard, though!

Here we are at the Vatican level and it looks like one of the guards isn't too pleased about Hawk's presence (funny, never knew they had so many washing machines there)
Daft double act

BONANZA BROS

And about time too! Say goodbye to saving the world, destroying aliens, catching rebels and all that sort of heroic effort, and wave a vigorous hello to becoming a thief in US Gold's forthcoming game, Bonanza Bros.

Yes, it makes a refreshing change to be on the wrong side of the law, getting up to all sorts of mischievous pranks such as those the Bonanza Bros spend their time doing. The boys are a couple of robot-looking chaps who've just broken out of prison and are after all the swag they can get their hands on.

The game takes you to loads of lootable locations like casinos, banks and even the Royal Mint, with the objective of grabbing as much dosh as possible and escaping.

Guards patrol the buildings and there are plenty of traps to be avoided (or face the consequences). Luckily, the boys are armed with guns but shooting off a round at a guard only brings more from their hiding places!

The game's taken from the Sega coin-op and is, ideally, a two-player game: the screen display is split to give each player their own playing area. Bonanza Bros has already found success on the consoles, and because it's a groovy cartoony arcade adventure, should be a neat one for the Speccy. Check out the dash-grabbing action when Bonanza Bros goes on release this autumn.

Wow! Look mum! It's... Pitfighter!

Domark are currently busy converting the smash hit Atari coin-op, Pitfighter. Huge graphics to rival US Gold's Final Fight and possibly the most violent hand-to-hand combat game ever seen on-screen, it looks set to make a great arrival on the Speccy scene this November.

'A' levels in brute force, naked aggression and a nasty, mean look on your face are the qualifications needed to make the grade into the pitfighting arena. You can choose any of the three available fighters: Buzz, Ty or Kato (no, not the one from the Pink Panther films). Each fighter has their own fighting skills: experience the action of wrestling, kick boxing or karate!

Ah, yes, cricket — that’s a jubbly summer sport isn’t it readers, all rubbing balls and smacking them with bits of willow on Sunday afternoons while drinking tea and stuffing lots of cream cakes! Lovely. That’s why the nation’s pottiest software house, Zeppelin, are releasing a wicked cricket game in September.

This cricket game, World Cricket, is supposed to be a sort of follow-on from World Soccer (except with bat and balls). It’s essentially a management game but, like Codies did with First Division Manager, the Zep ladz have really tarted it up with an icon control system, groovy graphics and generally made it quite interesting. In fact, Darren Jobling (Zep’s boss and happiest person in the software world) reckons it’s ‘the most accurate cricket management sim available’!

Packed with features, you can play one-day, test or tour cricket matches, select a team (with full statistics on all players), set out the positions of play, check the team’s fitness and show match highlights (with little animated sequences). Sounds like one to cry ‘Howzat!’ at when it’s released at £3.99! A snip of a bargain and that’s no mistake!

‘Do I fret and do I fuss? I do not! I just keep on snipping and pruning.’ Have you seen that Cafe Hag ad on the TV? Irritating little woman, isn’t she? But while it annoys everyone, can anyone stop saying that phrase over and over again? I think not. Anyway, ‘snipping and pruning’, that’s been me in the garden this month (it’s getting a bit jungle-like out there) and with your letters. Yes, some letters do have to be snipped and pruned (and there’s no point writing in to tell me, because I already know what I’ve done!). There are reasons: 1. For length; hideously long letters on the same subject can get deathly boring, make your comments short and snappy. 2. Some points in your letter may have been covered in a previous issue. 3. Some bits just don’t make sense. And 4, Enor nibbles bits away. Ahem. Letters as always to: Newsfield, LLOYD MANGRAM’S FORUM, CRASH, Ludlow, Shropshire SY8 1JW. TWIN BROTHER

Dear Lloyd

My brother keeps going on about a game he’s seen in the arcades called Mega Twins. He goes on and on about it and he thinks it’s really brill. I thought it would be nice if I could get it for him on the Speccy — at least it might shut him up! These daft Mega Twins are getting on my nerves. So, do you know anything about Mega Twins (it’s a Capcom coin-op, I think) and will they ever come out on the Speccy?

Sam Stephenson, Northampton

You can stop your fretting and fussing right now, Sam. The cutsey leap-around Mega Twins will be popping onto the Speccy in the near future, courtesy of US Gold. Check out the Happenings pages for more information.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS

Dear Lloyd

I’m a very proud 48K Speccy owner and have been for seven years! I’m also a CRASH subscriber and I just love the mag! I think the games we readers get free are pretty brilliant, really. My faves are Super Stuntman and Dizzy from Code Masters (on Stuntman, type your name in as BIG SCORE for infinite everything!). The up-to-date reviews, previews and news are excellent; and Jetman’s Lush too! Oli Frey’s artwork is brilliant — he could give me a few tips! I think the SAM Coupé is an excellent idea, but do all 48K games work on it? I toyed with the idea of selling Simon (my Speccy 48K) and buying a SAM, but I couldn’t be sure of getting £199, even after getting birthday and Christmas money!

Then I considered a +D disk drive and interface but that’s still £330. Then my friend told me to think about buying a second hand +3 128K Speccy, and then buying a Multiface 3 for it. If anyone has a spare +3 computer by itself, no extras, for a good price phone me on (091) 268 2449.

Which of these ideas do you think best? Bear in mind I want to do programming as well as have a disk drive. On the subject of programming, where can I find a good book on how to use machine code? I’m not brilliant at BASIC, but I want to see how code is used. My libraries are bare (not literally) of Speccy books so I haven’t got one yet! Also, in BASIC (understandable language), how do I get my own programs to load straight away onto the game without having an ‘OK’ message and pressing RUN?

And now, a missing person brt — or worrying about the world’s paper resources. Don’t go blaming the software houses entirely, more often than not it’s the retail shop* like Boots and WH Smiths that demand large softboxes for compilations, full-pricers and so on. But thank you for worrying about the world’s paper resources.

BOXING CON?

Dear Lloyd

Some of these computer companies are a bunch of con artists. I saw the Dizzy Collection lying on a shop shelf and I thought, ah, five tapes for the price of three-and-a-half games. I rushed over, got my dusty wallet open and fingered out my life’s savings (actually a month’s savings) of £10.99. The games were good but that wasn’t the point. The box was massive and there were two tapes inside. The box looked like it could fit five in. It’s the same with games like NARC and Nightbreed, where the box fits the tape like a Scotsman’s kilt.

Paul Hutton, Fife, Scotland.

PS I bet this is the only letter you get from Scotland (Och-aye, the Noo!)

Well, I suppose you’d know all about a Scotsman’s kilt, wouldn’t you? The Mangram family tartan has never appealed to me so I’ve never bothered trying to fit in a kilt. Anyway, packaging: I thought you might have guessed that hardly any packaging, whatever it’s for. It’s not merely used as a container for a product but as an attention-grabbing device. Bigger boxes mean more space to shout about the product (and, in software terms, a bigger box makes the product look like it’s worth more than a single-library cased cassette, like a budget game). Don’t go blaming the software houses entirely, more often than not it’s the retail shops like Boots and WH Smiths that demand large softboxes for compilations, full-prices and so on. But thank you for worrying about the world’s paper resources.

THAT OLD +2A PROB AGAIN

Dear Lloyd

I thought I'd write to ask your advice, as I received a Spectrum +2A for my birthday last week. I saw your magazine with the two free tapes and bought it. However, I seem to have a problem with two of the games. On Phantoms, the game loads okay but after I've played it the game freezes and then resets itself to 48K mode.

Also on Dizzy, I can play for a short while then Dizzy starts to leave a printed trail behind him and then the screens start to flash through in rapid succession until that game resets to 48K mode as well.

Could you send me if there is any way I can stop this happening or have I just got a duft tape?

Brian Turrell, Peterfield, Hampshire

Have you tried loading the games in 48K mode? If it doesn't work, try entering 128K BASIC, type RANDOMISE USR 0 (reset to 48K) and LOAD "" to load the games. Should be no problem then. Oh, and can everyone please take note of it; the amount of letters we have from +2A owners every month with similar problems is amazing (and I don't want any more!)

LETTER OF THE MONTH

Dear Lloyd

What a shock (turns round in amazement!) I walked into WH Smiths today (they always get CRASH in first) and I saw the beautiful, stupendous July issue of CRASH: Right, I thought to myself, let's dig in my pocket for a couple of £1 coins. So I pulled two pounds out of my pocket and picked up a copy of CRASH. Shock, horror! It costs £2.99. Well, I came over faint, I needed a glass of water or a couple of beans, or something.

So I thought to myself, the CRASH mob don't usually let me down when it comes to the cover tapes (they're usually brill), so I bought it. I wouldn't want a gap in my CRASH collection, I rushed home as fast as my legs would take me (or should I say as fast as my car would go — within the speed limit, that is, as I'm a conscientious soul) and delicately removed the cover tapes.

While the first game was loading, I glanced through CRASH and to behold, my letter is in Live Circuit. Oh! What a bonus to have my name printed in my beloved magazine. Not the star letter, mind you, but at least it's there. By the time I'd read my letter and your comments (very interesting, didn't like the wet haddock bit, but I'm brave, I can take it) the first game had loaded — the demo of Turrican 2 to be precise. Must admit it's good, if I can amass a few pennies I might buy the full game.

I played the rest of the games; amazing, they're all brilliant. I thought to myself that if I went to a shop and bought these games it would cost me a bomb. So I've just worked out how much it would cost me.

You could class Moon Magic 2, 2112 AD, Hunter and A Shadow on Glass, albeit that they're good games, as budget. So the price of a budget game is £2.99 (I know some are £3.99 but we'll keep it at that), Space Harrier is £5.99. Only Turrican 2 is £3.99 and that's just for starters.

The two demos Night Shift and Turrican 1 would class as £1 each as they're demos, so that makes the running total £13.96. I would class Dragontoro at £5.99, Cricket Coach as about £4.99 (could be worth more but we'll keep it at that), Space Worm and Confused we'll call £3.99 shots.

All together that makes, erm... (hold on, where's my calculator?), WOW! £33.92, and also CRASH, which must add on at least another £1.50, that makes a grand total of (let's look at the old scoreboard) an amazing £34.42. Well, that means I've saved £31.43! Amazing! I don't know how you do it.

Then, at the back of CRASH it says the next copy is only £2.20 and one of the best Speccy games will be on the cover next month (my guess is Dizzy) with a map. I found it almost unbelievable, can you keep it up? I bet you can. Well, after reading all that I'd bet you say 'What praise!'. You deserve it and I felt I had to write to tell you so. I now look forward to next month's CRASH.

Mike Fitzpatrick, Blackpool

PS I've just realised I've mentioned CRASH 11 times in this letter. I'll have to write to Norris McWhirter and ask him if it's a record and I might get into the Guinness Book of Records.

Really, Mike, I'm not sure Norris would be too interested (and I don't fancy the barrage of letters from other readers seeing how many times they can mention CRASH in one letter). Norris is far too busy doing sensible things like timing how long someone can sit in a bath of baked beans, or something.

Thanks for your comments (blush), CRASH is an incredible bargain only matched by the cheapness of its jokes (especially Charlie's).

LETTER OF THE MONTH

Dear Lloyd

The cover tape on Issue 90 — not! Nightshift looks good, so I loaded it up. After about an hour, I'd completed the first two levels and I thought to myself, I need more. So I went to the bank to take out a loaner, got on the bus and went into town. Should I have? Nobody had it. Please could you tell me if I can send away for a copy.

Laura, don't fret, don't fuss — a solution is at hand. If you can't get your local shop to order a copy, you can order one from us at the bargain price of £8.99. Make your mail to the mail order pages this instant!

Spectrum books on their lists and you can contact them on (021) 706 6000.

The Video Vault upgrade to transform a 48K Speccy into a 128K model is still available, at the reduced price of £59.99. Phone them on (0457) 866555 for full details.

YOU WANT A 2?!

Dear Lloyd

I've written to ask your advice on something which has been puzzling me for a long time. I want to buy an Atari Lynx and I don't know whether I should buy the original Lynx or the Lynx 2. Some of my friends say I should buy the original because there's less to go wrong and it's bigger. My other friend says I should buy the Lynx 2 because it looks better, it's smaller and it's got better controls. I would be grateful if you would help me decide.

Toby Rose, Norwich, Norfolk

Now, listen chaps, you're supposed to stick with the Specycl! I haven't got a clue about the Lynx (though the team on our sister mag, ZZAP!, seem to like them for some peculiar reason) but in any case, it's always worthwhile for a Mark 2 version of a machine to be released, they're usually superior. Though, don't forget about the Sega Game Gear (featured this issue), it's a
I'm in the compo, why don't you?

To CRASH

I have sent you a very pretty picture (ooooh!!!) of some of those movie/computer stars that you are always babbling about in your ace computer mag every month. I hope that you can stick it up on your wall (so that you don't forget that you're supposed to be reviewing games and start writing EastEnders instead) without putting dirty marks on your lovely CRASH wallpaper.

By the way, in issue 90, when Mike Fitzpatrick criticised the centre page poster, you said that everyone else liked them so they were staying. Well, I do agree but the only problem is that we've not had one for ages (two issues anyway). Could you tell Oli to get his paint brush speeded up so that we can get our bedrooms chock-a-block with colour again? Do you call him Oli paints? Funny, eh? Don't give me a wet haddock for that last crack as it was the best I can do.

James 'Waffy' Stafford, Whitley Bay, Tyne & Wear

Cheers for the pics, James — but you really don't have to worry about the wallpaper, Enter the mouse has already scoffed most of it. I don't mind; I never did like the raised bright yellow flowers on a hideous orange background. To use Multiface pokes, you need a Multiface from Romantic Robot; instructions are in the manual. Posters are becoming more and more a regular thing due to the many letters we've had about them. Oli has already got a turbo-charged airbrush (with fetching go-faster stripes on the side).

Win a SAM Coupé!

(Well, it sort of rhymes. Whadd’ya expect? Betchmen?)

○ Hurrah! We’ve a SAM Coupé to give away!
○ If you already have one you can win a £200 SAM shopping voucher!
○ By jove, aren’t Sam Computers ace? (Yes!)

FIRST, A BIT OF ‘HISTORY’

• In 1974, the Sinclair Spectrum was launched and everyone said ‘Lord in Heaven! What is this infernal contraption? Surely it is the devil’s work? Be gone, foul rubber-keyed item!’ So, erm, it didn’t go down to well then.
• The Speccy then saw the light of day in 1982 and this time everyone said ‘It’s the home-computer sensation that’s sweeping the nation!’, because it was. And things trucked along like that for a few years and the Speccy became the UK’s favourite computer. Hurrah!
• In 1987, a couple of chaps, namely Alan Miles and Bruce Gordon, thought the Speccy was looking a bit long in the tooth and decided to invent a Super Spectrum — and they did! Everyone said ‘Behold! ’Tis truly a wonderful beast (but why on Earth is it called the SAM Coupé?)’

SUPER COUPÉ

Yes, the SAM’s been around for over 18 months now and has picked up a loyal band of followers. Support is growing with more hardware and software being produced all the time — check out the review of Prince Of Persia from last issue and the F-16 demo on this month’s Powertape for proof!

So, what better way to celebrate SAM’s success than with a trif and brill compo! SAM Computers have stumped up a splendid first prize — £200 worth of SAM stuff! So, if you don’t already have a Coupé, you can win one, complete with disk drive! If you do have one, you can pick up £200 worth of SAM goodies! Mega, eh?

Remember, if you don’t want to cut up the mag, either make a photocopy or re-draw the whole thing yourself. Easy as that! Send your entries to:

Entries that don’t arrive here by September 12 are shown the express route to dumperdom and our decision (and that of SAM Computers, who are judging too) is final, absolute and anyone who argues will be munched. So, naaaaah!

MAKE A FUNNY

To be in with a chance of winning all you have to do is create a cartoon featuring SAM — the only condition is that it must be in the format as shown on this page (ie, four frames, with our illustration as the first frame, though you have to put in your own text). Make it funny, make it crazy — do what you want!

EVERYTHING YOU WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT THE SAM (but were too lazy to find out for yourself)

• The SAM uses the all-new Z80B microprocessor, an advanced version of the Z80 used by the Spectrum and Amstrad, running at 6Mhz. It has 32K x 8 of ROM that contains SAM BASIC, disk bootstrap and BIOS. The basic model has 256K of RAM upgradeable to 512K and Megabyte interfaces are available to be plugged in via the expansion connector.
• Sound is supplied by a Philips SAA 1099 synthesizer, giving six channels and eight octaves, all in stereo. Graphics come from a Motorola MC 1377P Video Chip. BASIC offers four different screen resolution modes.
• The SAM has interfaces for TV, colour composite video, digital and linear RGB (through SCART), a standard joystick port, mouse, lightpen/lightgun/audio out, 3.5mm cassette jack, MIDI connectors and a 64-pin Euroconnector for further peripherals. The keyboard has 73 full travel keys, membrane type, including ten function keys.

Hello there! Here’s my SAM cartoon. Most amusing, isn’t it?

☐ I don’t have a Coupé and want to win one
☐ I do have a Coupé and want £200 worth of goodies
Lots of exciting things have been happening on the SAM lately, most of which are very 'hush, hush' so I can't tell you about them. In fact, I don't even know myself! Useless, eh? Stay tuned and all will be revealed in the only regular SAM Coupé page (ie, this one)!

SAY CHEESE!

At long last SAM Co have released their mouse. It's effectively the mouse mark two — originally the idea was to produce a custom chip that would be mounted in the mouse but this was too expensive. SAM Co have opted for a special interface that plugs into the mouse socket and can be used with any Atari ST compatible mouse. The user can either buy the complete package that includes interface with leads, an excellent Atari/Amiga compatible mouse, software and a mouse holder, or just the interface and software.

The free software includes a basic sliding puzzle game, a program that shows the coordinates coming from the mouse and an updated version of the art package Flash! (that crashes if you select any control method other than mouse).

The mouse is especially useful for creating artwork. I tested out the new Flash! and found the mouse worked well for drawing freehand curves and sketches but when it comes down to the fine detail you definitely need to switch back to keyboard. It helps if you use a good quality mouse mat, otherwise the cursor tends to jump across the screen.

The SAM Co mouse is available now with a £39.95 price tag for both interface and mouse.

OUTLET'S COMPO

Chezron Software, the people that produce the SAM disk mag Outlet are offering a cash prize in a compo. They're looking for the best graphics or sound demo on the SAM and have £100 to award as the first prize. All entries will be examined carefully and judged by its editors and any that are featured in Outlet will receive a minimum prize of £10.

The competition runs over the next six months and you can contact Outlet, for both the magazine and compo details, at: Chezron Software, 605 Loughborough Road, Birstall, Leicester LE4 4NJ.

That's all for now. If you've any Coupé news, software or hardware, send it to: Newsfield, NICK'S SAM PAGE, CRASH, Ludlow, Shropshire SY8 1JW. Ta-ta!

GANSH! A KLUG'EM BATTLEBOAT!
This game is a bit like One Jumping up and down between having a spot of bother with your His Dog together. This also applies to pressing fire and the direction appropriate direction, rather than just keep walking, as they aren't too fast and quickly get left behind. with these you will have to stop and SHADOW DANCER • If In doubt about tackling a bad wanders off • The cloud can be troublesome to kill it jump up and throw a bomb when it's near. If you haven't got bombs then things are a little trickier as you'll have to jump up to a higher platform and fire as it comes up — trouble is that the cloud moves fast so fire as quickly as possible once you jump up. • Bombs thrown off-screen from vertical platforms are still alive and can dispose of baddies below before you descend. • Even if your elephant is off-screen he can still progress, although it's a lot tougher negotiating spikes and baddies when you can't see what you're doing! It's recommended that the on-screen elephant go back to bring his friend back. If he can't then carry on through the level — the lost buddy will pop up eventually in a better position, at the cost of a life. • The Yeti takes about 35 peanuts to kill but you may not get a chance to peanut him as he bounces around and the stalactites fall all around. The best bet is to use bombs on him when he's close and if you risk getting really close you can unleash loads of bombs very quickly and finish him off!

CJ'S ELEPHANT ANTICS

• The best way to kill the end-of-level hunchback is to get close and bomb him as fast as possible. Then run away to avoid the bullets and repeat until he falls off his perch.

SPAIN

• If you lose a life use the invulnerability to run across spikes, through baddies and get further into the level.

• The cloud can be troublesome when it starts firing lightning bolts. To kill it jump up and throw a bomb when it's near. If you haven't got bombs then things are a little trickier as you'll have to jump up to a higher platform and fire as it comes up — trouble is that the cloud moves fast so fire as quickly as possible once you jump up.

If he can't then carry on through the level — the lost buddy will pop up eventually in a better position, at the cost of a life.

• The cashcard you find on the cover tape a few issues back.

• The bucket must be used on the pond with the small piece of grass sticking out into it to fill it up.

• The lettuce you find with the lettuce opener then mix the two objects.

• The Yeti takes about 35 peanuts to kill but you may not get a chance to peanut him as he bounces around and the stalactites fall all around. The best bet is to use bombs on him when he's close and if you risk getting really close you can unleash loads of bombs very quickly and finish him off!
That's as far as I've got. Please send through all 36 levers. Here the map you'll need the Romantic Robot from Germany, has sent this in. You may have for the game — it's driving me bonkers!!

The first thing to do is go into the Multiface and POKE 44819, 0. This will give you infinite energy. Now you have to work out your own route to throw all 36 levers. Here the map comes in very handy.

In screen A3 you'll find a helicopter. By touching it at the right position you will be whisked off to a screen with mountains in the background. Go left and you'll see a lever beneath a white thing with pipes around it. Throw the lever without touching the white thing. To do this go carefully near it then turn right and do a high jump. Now go back to the helicopter and jump at it. You should be back in screen A3.

In A8, you'll have to touch the rocket where the chequered stripes are. You'll be on the moon. Hit the lever and go back to A6. You should now have thrown four levers. Look at the map, find and throw the other 32 but before you do that go to A8 or the door to H1 won't be open!

There are some tricky screens in the game. In G7 there's a lever at the right of the middle of the screen. You have to get to it without falling down and if you fall there's no chance to get up again. So before you attempt to get to the right you should go into the Multiface again and POKE the area from 18499 to 18522 with 255's. Now under the moving platforms there will be an area. Go back into the game and you can safely reach the lever (hold on, POKEs to create new platforms in a game — that's cheating to its highest degree!!)

If you've thrown all the levers and have heard the alarm sound, you can head for screen C1. You'll see a starting box which changes colour. Get it! Now you have to make you way to the treasure room, H1.

Normally, you'd have to go through room H5, which is almost impossible to cross! Arrows are fired from the left and end the game if they touch you!

The alternative is to go to room G2. There you have to go into the Multiface to POKE a hole into the floor!! The following addresses are all in HEX: you must POKE the addresses 503A, 503B, 505A, 505B with the value 0. Then you have to increase the second digit of these addresses (ie. 503A to 513A, 503B to 513B, etc) and POKE them with 0. Repeat this until the address 573A, 573B, etc have the value 0. If all this has been POKE'd correctly, a hole should be in the floor.

Go back to the game and drop down through the hole. If you had visited A8 before the door will now be open. Don't go to the right because if you then re-enter room H2 the door will be closed again. So go to the left immediately.

Now in room H1 you will see the treasure. Get it! Now the coffin will open and a hand fires at you! Immediately go to the block closest to the (now closed) door. Jump at the door. The hand will fire at the door thus opening it. Now rush out. Go right.

In room H3 just fall down (don't jump!) so you land in front of the skeletons. Go right as far as possible, make a long jump and then a high jump at once. If done correctly you'll have escaped from the arrows. Now get to screen D6 to complete the game.

GOLDEN AXE

Here's one mean arcade conversion, with some impressively coloured graphics, too! If you're finding the speeding, slicing and beating a little too rough (you poor souls), try these tips.

The game fighting system allows you to make three types of attack on the enemy. Aerial which uses the Piledriver, Normal which is swords/dice, and kick, and Speed which uses the shoulder butt and, in the case of the dwarf, a flying headbutt.

Aerial

The piledriver is by far the best move available due to its strength, speed and the ability to wipe out superbaddies with a few attacks. However, it's slightly harder to implement than a normal aerial attack as a combination of speed is needed.

You should always use piledriver on the superbaddies, coming in on them at an angle in the air — otherwise there's a good chance he'll hit you with his weapon (oh no! Stop it madam! Don't!) while you're jumping up if you're on the same horizontal line. From level two onwards, piledriver will become essential for your survival so make them part of an ordinary attack. You should always remember to come in at an angle and retreat as soon as the opponent is floored so they don't catch you off guard when if they jump up again.

Normal

By simply holding down the fire button and moving in a direction you'll perform either a sword swing or a kick. Timing is essential in later levels for this attack to work. The best time to press fire is before they can get within reach and perform a violent act on you. It's better to miss one or two swipes first rather than let them have the edge. You see when you hit them once as they're stunned, but be quick with the follow-up because they come back quickly in later levels. As soon as you stun him, move in for the kill and he should be floored.

If you're going to use this attack on superbaddies it's recommended you run just in front of them and press fire as they can easily be outpped.

Speed

Is this move really worth using? I mean, the only use this could possibly be to you is to stall the enemy so you can get your act together (useful in Ludlow if some local yob wants to 'have a go'). If you really want to use this move and show off the head/shoulder butt, do so on the level as this move is really inaccurate (like the locals).

If you're really desperate or want to relax you can use this on a superbaddie, although it takes an

IVAN 'IRON MAN' STEWART'S SUPER OFF ROAD RACER!

This is one of the only race games I've seen that goes for total realism in the graphics. The way the cars bit and turn around the bumpy track is amazing! Here are a few tips for those who are finding it a bit tough.

- A good tip to slow down the rate at which the computer-controlled cars improve their performance during a game is to wait at the finishing line (if you're in first position) until the second place car is about to beat you to the post. Just accelerate across the line and while you won't have a good lap time it will fool the computer into thinking you're a beginner/slow driver and thus the computer cars are modified at a slower rate.
- When in the pit shop, start with shocks and tyres. Upgrade these to half or three-quarters full with one higher speed added on initially to keep you ahead of the pack. Never buy into one of your credits unless it's absolutely necessary as they're vital on the later levels.
- The way I buy equipment is to fill up with shocks, one unit per shop stop, then full nitros (don't go over the limit). When you're full up with shocks do the same for tyres. When you've got all the tyres you should notice the car's sharper cornering. At any time, if you get $200 000 or more get a higher top speed then, with what's left, top up on nitros (between 40 and 60 nitros provides for the best acceleration). When you get down to ten or so nitros, stock up again.
- On the very first race, nitro away from the pack. Only do this when there's a long way ahead with no cars in it.
- If you get jammed with another car, use the nitro. You'll probably fly back but at least you'll be free.
- On the second race at the top of the circuit, position your car in the middle of the two barriers and just hit the gas (not nitros). Don't turn as you always hit the barriers and they turn you around!
- On the first figure-of-eight, always nitro (if you have any left) horizontally but beware of the barriers on the other side. When you're turning to go over the water vertically (middle section), nitro as you're turning and nine times out of ten if you've done it right you'll go flying over the water. If you turn normally you'll just skim the barrier on the other side. Never nitro vertically when going the opposite way.
- On the track with a high corner, always jump off that corner using a nitro. Whichever way you are going this is useful for overtaking people as you jump. Sometimes when you land on the other cars they go back or slow down.
- Short cuts are invariably a waste of time as they're too narrow to allow for margin of error. So unless you're lined up dead accurately then it's best to go around.
- When you're going to lose and are in fourth place or so, don't let the race go. Try your best to move up into third or second place as you get more cash ready for when you use your continue play.

age before he's finished off. Watch out for fast-moving skeletons which don't give you time to do a charge. Charges can also be performed on Bizarrians.

Riding Bizarrians
There are the two types of Bizarrian. The first breathes fire onto the ground next to it and the second spits fireballs right across the screen. For the former, wait until the enemy is about a sprite's distance away and let him/her/it have it (generally fire just before the enemy reaches swiping range). You must ensure you're on the same horizontal line (or slightly above) the opponent as it could get behind you and clip you from there.

With the latter Bizarrian, the same rules about lining up your target apply except you don't need to wait at all — just fire and the fireball will hit. When it hits, move up the screen a tad and have another one ready for when the sucker gets up again. Repeat until opponent is dead.

Protect your Bizarrians at all costs as they're your most powerful ally (after Magic) and can only take three or so hits before scarpering. Both dragons, however, do flying headbutts (double move in either direction and fire). These are slightly more powerful than normal head/shoulder butts but still take an age to work on superbaddies.

Magic Pots and more importantly, Energy Top-ups. The blue thieves give you an extra level of magic per pot and the green tops up any lost energy to full on the current life (don't bother chasing the green thieves if your energy bar is three bars full).

The thieves are quite easy to hit once you know where to strike and their patterns of movement. Run in front of them and wait until they stop and then have a go. If you're lucky you may get three levels of magic out of the blue ones. Obviously, only one energy top-up is needed from the green thieves. If you don't touch them, the thieves will eventually run off-screen anyway.

Killing superbaddies
At the end of each level a superbaddy appears with a humongous superweapon intent on contact with your head. Normally these guys come on slowly, so position yourself for a diagonal piledriver and when he's in range let him have it. Timing is essential as an early piledriver leaves you recovering right next to the baddy while the action too late sees a sword/mallet swipe chop you out of the sky.

If the superbaddy comes on quickly, stand still. When he's close use the headbutt to floor the blighter!

Magic
The best time to use full-power magic is on the second superbaddy of a level, as the second is nearly always slightly tougher. Also use full-power magic on the knight. Use small levels of magic often and save up for superbaddies. Try to use the top or the bottom of the screen as they're the most accurate points for magic potion use.

BEST BIT: The astounding graphics.
WORST BIT: It's very, very hard.

71 Shadowfire
Beyond/ Market Stall
The Shadowfire of the title is a revolutionary new starship whose plans are on the person of one Ambassador Kryxix. But he has been kidnapped and it's as Zark Montor, Syllk, Sevrina Maris, Torik, Maul and Manto (collectively known as Enigma) that you must find the
Ambassador and retrieve the plans.
Claimed to be the first game to make use of an icon-based control system — intriguing strategy game.
BEST BIT: The easy-to-use icon system.
WORST BIT: Even though you're allowed 100 minutes, it's still tough to complete.

Bombjack
Encore/Budget
Each level, set in different locations around the world, is played on a single screen and has heroic Bombjack (a sprightly little fellow) leaping around on the many platforms collecting the 23 bombs scattered about the screen. He also must avoid the many different opponents who try to pop his clogs
— contact with them is fatal.
BEST BIT: The speed and chaos of the action.
WORST BIT: As you get really good at it, the game can become repetitive.

70 Teenage Mutant
Hero Turtles
Mirrorsoft/Full Price
Cowabunga dudes! It's those heroes in a half shell who spend 50% of their time thwarting the latest dastardly plan dreamed up by Shredder and the other 50% making up silly surfing slog to confuse people with. So this is basically a game where you control all four turtles (but not at the same time) over a large side-viewed areas. Graphically special and simple to play.
BEST BIT: The large, fast moving,
colourful sprites.
WORST BIT: Ideal for younger players, experienced players will find it too easy.

Dynamite Dan
Mirrorsoft/ Power Tape
Hailed as the platform game to beat
Jet Set Willy, Dynamite Dan stars (predictably) Dan who's lost his girlfriend to a bunch of rotten villains who've locked her in a safe. Time is of the essence because advanced asphyxiation is all she's to look forward to if Dan doesn't collect enough dynamite to blow the safe open. The graphics are the star of the game, with heaps of colour on the platforms, scenery and many deadly creatures that roam the play area.

BEST BIT: Gorgeous to look at...

WORST BIT: Accidently driving the wrong way up a one-way street.

64 BATMAN
The Hit Squad/Budget

The first of the Batman games was a 3D isometric puzzler where The Joker, up to his usual tricks, has kidnapped Robin and broken the Batmobile into seven pieces and hidden them around the Batcave. Batman has also to find various parts of his attire — Batboots, Batbelt and Batbag — to help him quest. The humourous graphics and variety of puzzle packed screens make it a real joy to explore the maze of locations.

BEST BIT: The variety of puzzles, graphics and gameplay.

WORST BIT: Batman looks a mite tubby.

65 APB
The Hit Squad/Budget

A policeman's lot is not a happy one, especially when it comes to Officer Bob. A daily arrest list must be completed within the time limit or the Commissioner will sling you out on your ear. Litterbugs, honkers and dopers etc. are very tough to beat. For the excellent graphics routines by ace programmer Pete Cooke but the size of the massive play area. Mutated fly-like predators, Scrim, live in the tunnels of a biocomputer. As member of the Guild Of Equalisers it's your job to clear each level of Scrim and thus make the biocomputer 'bug' free.

BEST BIT: The speed of the graphics as you race down the tunnels.

WORST BIT: Tough to complete as the Scrim continually reproduce.

66 HYPER SPORTS
Imagine/Budget

Sporty games have been popular over the years and Hyper Sports is no exception. Based on the popular Konami coin-op, the game takes you out to the sports field to take part in many gruelling events such as weight lifting, swimming and archery etc. So prepare to bust both your wrists and your joystick on one of the best sports sims the Speccy has seen in many years.

BEST BITS: The variety of events and the small but wonderfully detailed sprites.

WORST BIT: The amount of busted joysticks.

68 FRANKIE GOES TO HOLLYWOOD
Ocean/Compilation

There were a lot of 'Frankie says... T-shirts around a few years ago and the game appeared in Issue 19. It's a bit difficult to describe in full but basically you play a dull, drab person who must ultimately make their way to the Pleasuredome. This is achieved by collecting pleasure points by completing screen after screen of strange puzzles, accessed from wandering around houses and rooms and discovering entry points. A strange game (but a good 'un).

BEST BIT: Enormous fun in an abstract kinda way.

WORST BIT: Had little to do with the band itself!

69 ENDURO RACER
The Hit Squad/Budget

These off-road racing games are pretty popular and so is Enduro Racer. Here the player's seen on an off-road bike as they zoom around a grass/muddy track attempting to lap the numerous obstacles in their path. There's a time limit and it's pretty tough.

BEST BIT: The speed the bikes belt around the course.

60 SWIV
The Sales Curve/Full Price

The Special Weapons Interdiction Vehicles (SWIVs) are out in force. The game is split into four levels, each containing several sections. SWIV is a two-player affair where a tank and a jeep work together to blast the stuffing out of a range of enemy hardware (before the enemy can reply in kind). Err... and that's basically it, shoot first and ask questions of the smoking wreckage later (that's our kind of game).

BEST BIT: The fast paced and violent action.

WORST BIT: Almost impossible as a one-player game.

00 Q1 HOLLYWOOD
Renegade and this time he's out to avenge his brother's murder. Mr Big is the leader of the gang who planted brother Matt six feet under, so Renegade has to fight his way through the hordes of gang members and finally battle and kill him. Gameplay is very much like the original but the speed's better, making it more playable.

BEST BIT: The rip, mangle and maim content.

WORST BIT: Some of the adversaries are very tough to beat.

62 MICRONAUT ONE
Nexus/Powertape

This 3D scrolarama tunnel game was raved on it's original release not only 90 Code Masters/on Pengfo-style levels with Dizzy different locations so it's up to him to rescue them. The evil Wizard Zak has spirited away Dizzy's pals to challenges yet. The evil Wizard Zak Snax Dizzy is a real cool dude and in an attempt to crush his attackers. pushing blocks around the screen in an attempt to crush his attackers. BEST BITS: The excellent intro screen and the detailed in-game sprites.

94 Circus Empire/Full Price
This game is a plumber's nightmare! The main idea is to connect a network of piping together to catch the liquid flooz that flows out of the starting point. This isn't easy because the piping is randomly shaped so the right piece has to be found pronto if you want to avoid a flooz leak. One of the most addictive (and infuriating) puzzle games ever created!

BEST BITS: The brain-bending puzzle element.
WORST BIT: The fast-flowing flooz.

51 Midnight Resistance Ocean/Full Price
As a result of your grandad's top secret experiments, your family has been kidnapped by a vile alien entity. So with large and very lethal gun in hand, you yomp across the nine levels that make up the game, blasting the stuffing out of the enemy troops that attack without mercy. Some are human, others defy description. All are after your hide so stop reading this and start blasting!

BEST BITS: The mindless blasting and the excellent graphics.
WORST BIT: Control system between gun and hero takes a bit of getting used to.

Hurrah for Sega’s latest gadget: the Sega Game Gear. It’s a full-colour hand-held console and it’s just like having a Master System with TV screen in the palm of your hand.

ANY TIME, ANY PLACE, ANYWHERE

It really is a rather lush item, and it really is portable! It measures a comfortable 20 x 10 x 3cm. The Game Gear takes six AA batteries for playing when you’re out and about and at home you can simply power it with a 9v DC adapter.

The basic Game Gear unit, launched in July, costs £99 and the games set you back £20-25 each. There are some corking titles already available for it. A couple you’ll recognise from the Speccy, like Super Monaco GP and WonderBoy, then there are a few Sega specialities like the puzzle game Columns (it’s a bit like Zeppelin’s Stack Up) and the wonderfully playable Mickey Mouse game.

All are shown in detail on the full-colour, LCD back-lit screen. Before long you’ll be able to buy a TV tuner which plugs into the back of the Game Gear turning into a miniature colour telly!

IT ALL SOUNDS RATHER SPANKY

It’s incredibly spanky and now we’ve got your juices going here’s the good news: we’ve got five Sega Game Gears to give away! Yippee, that’s almost £500 worth of prizes!

So, how d’ya stand a chance of winning one of these fab gadgets? It’s simplicity itself, punters. We’ve printed four screenshots of four different Game Gear games on this page, all you have to do is to work out which screen shot is which game: pick out Mickey Mouse, Super Monaco GP, WonderBoy and Columns. DARKEST ROAD
Zenobi Software • £1.99

Looks like the Black Wanderer is up to a few tricks. Spreading the great Sadness while drawing the Darkness ever closer is no mean feat before breakfast. This guy lives in The Pinnacle, a rather foreboding fortress. Basically, left unchecked, he'll swamp the land with his evil. You, of course, are the only one who can defeat this character. Along with the Silent Song, written by a local cabaret singer with laryngitis, you can drive the darkness from the land. That's your task. Locate the Black Wanderer and hit him square in the mush with a nifty sound effect.

KOBYASHI AG’KWO
Zenobi Software • £1.99 (tape)/£2.99 (disk)

Those of you who’ve been adventuring for a while may remember an adventure called Kobyashi Nami. It was played via an icon interface, unfortunately not to many people’s liking.

But here are two bits of good news: firstly, a sequel has emerged, written by Clive Wilson and, secondly, it’s been produced using PAW so play follows the more conventional text entry format.

The story goes something like this (cough): you find yourself in the land of Ygor. Things have changed since the days of the original game and the Ultimate Trial. The Ethereons hold sway; an odd race who’ve changed the Naru into the Ag’Kwo, changing the Trial for anyone who wishes to dabble with the ultimate.

The task? Well, in a similar vein to the original, you have to find four artefacts hidden by the Ethereons, in different locations.

HOB'S HOARD
Zenobi Software ■ £.99

Hob's Hoard is a two-part text adventure that tells the tragic tale of your brother's death, a victim of a hit-and-run accident in the quaint Cornish village of Polanty. You return to the scene of the crime to sort out your brother's affairs and while sorting through his papers you stumble on evidence of a hoard of treasure. You have a mission: return to your brother's estate and while sorting his affairs and while sorting through his papers you stumble on evidence of a hoard of treasure.

Deek's Deeds
Zenobi Software ■ £1.99

Retrochrome is an organisation that has set itself the task of ridding the past of evil, disease and Mike Yarwood. You, the young Deek, are a member of this society. You have a mission: return to the Middle Ages and dispose of Reg the Bad to 'make Acton Trussell a safe place for hamsters and gerbils alike.' Bizarre, isn't it? So, Deek's Deeds is a humorous adventure full of skits and jokes. Some of them fall flat on their face, others are painfully bad, while a few hit the mark and provide a chuckle or two.

The game's first and most original feature is also its biggest drawback. You choose a number of objects from a given list which are then beamed down to your destination. But if you don't start the adventure with the correct set of objects you're snookered. You can wander around the adventure with three or four different sets of objects and still not have the right ones.

Deek's Deeds isn't too difficult once the object choice is out of the way. However, you get the feeling that the adventure is more of a vehicle to hang the humour rather than a game in its own right.

TREASURE ISLAND
River Software ■ £2.95

Treasure Island is a text adventure adaptation of the well known book. This adventure continues the prolific output of Spectrum adventures from River and reflects the steady improvement of their adventure system.

Although it looks simple, the game moves very swiftly, mainly because only part of the location description changes from move to move. Items are merely added or taken away from the description, speeding up play wonderfully.

Treasure Island is well paced with a gentle beginning to draw you in gradually and the continuing good design aids this. For example, if you attempt to move in the wrong direction you'll be reminded in which directions you can travel. One of or two areas of the game that proved irritating. A couple of the problems were a little unfair, I thought: While standing on the beach you have to 'Examine Sea' to trigger the landing of a boat and the furtherance of the plot. This part of the story could have been better designed - the story grounds to a halt otherwise.

One or two glitches appear. Examining a dead body prompted the response 'It's Red Leicester', which refers to some cheese later on (unless the deceased was called Mr Leicester and was a member of the Communist Party, of course). A good game tarnished with a couple of irritations but otherwise recommended.

COLOURFUL CARS

Chevy Chase allows you to choose the type of car you want to play with and select its colours, which is really neat as many people moan about boring monochrome and lack of colour variety.

Chevy Chase provides a challenge for all car racing fans. You really have to concentrate on your driving to beat the clock and running out of time just before the checkpoint is annoying but makes you want to try again. This game makes a change from the usual Formula 1 or sports car racing and — hurray! — it's great value for money.

After the trials of the original game, little Columbus Jumbo Elephant took a holiday in the States. But while he was out of his native Africa, the dastardly villain of the first game, known only as The Hunter, sneaked into CJ's patch and kidnapped his brothers and sisters! Coo.

So, with a trunk full of peanuts and his trusty brolly tucked under his arm (for any nasty long drops), CJ goes off the rescue. Like the first He's back! BACK! BACK! CJ the Elephant is welcomed back to the Speccy in style with a new adventure (much like the first) that's great fun. MARK CASWELL offered a few buns...

J's American Antics is one of the best platform games to have appeared on the Speccy this year. Both the graphics and sonics (especially in 128K mode) are excellent, the title tune is toe-tapping and CJ's elephantic antics are hilarious. The attackers are vicious but they're varied, wonderfully drawn and animated. My personal favourites are the ghosts who run around with bed sheets on their heads. The puzzles are as tough as the baddies — if I had ten pence for every time CJ got spiked I would be very rich by now. But the game is much too cute to be annoying, so CJ is worth the price tag. Even if it is just to sing 'Nellie the Elephant' in an annoyingly loud voice. 90%
The Return Of The Witchlord

GREMLIN £5.99 - £7.99

Hullo, what's this? It's not a game in itself (not at that strange price, anyway). It must be an expansion pack. And, it is! MARK CASWELL gets into some additional HeroQuest dungeon dilemmas!

Now, does thinking that is just a cheap way of playing the HeroQuest game bother you? To play the new adventures you need the original HeroQuest game and tape.

Gremlin advise that you use a saved character from HeroQuest because the new missions are a darn sight tougher (a very slight understatement). Mr. Zappy, the evil dungeon master, is still lurking around but so are the four brave heroes: Messrs Stumpy the Dwarf, Eric the Elf, Annie the Barbarian and Wizzy the Wizard (as named by me, of course).

IT'S THE FAB FOUR (AGAIN)

The game starts much the same as HeroQuest with you choosing characters, buying supplies (if you have any gold left over from previous games) and choosing spells for the Elf and Wizard.

General gameplay is unchanged, as are the attacking hordes, although there do seem to be more of them. One change I noticed is the static screen that appears when a character is attacked. Each creature and adventurer has their own full colour 'you have been wounded, you clumsy prat' screen, which is very pretty indeed.

As this is an extension of HeroQuest rather than a true sequel, I can't add a great deal to the original review. But these extra missions are greatly appreciated as I'd solved most of the quests in the original game. So, go and buy it (I guess as simple as that, really).

Renegade 3

THE HIT SQUAD £3.99

The third and final part of the Renegade trilogy takes us across time and space. It's a bit like a ninja Dr Who as the world's best martial artist goes off to save his girle (yet again) from a race of evil aliens and certain death.

The third and final part of the Renegade trilogy takes us across time and space. It's a bit like a ninja Dr Who as the world's best martial artist goes off to save his girlie (yet again) from a race of evil aliens and certain death.

Time is of the essence; take too long to complete a level and you become a permanent resident of that timezone. While the original Renegade game set the pace, the sequels have followed it well. Though Renegade 3's story is a bit bottom of the barrel, it's a really fast-paced, fun beat-'em-up with great graphics and playability. Cheap and cheerful,
The drug lords are expanding their empire to include five major cities so it's time to call in Crockett and Tubbs. Erm, no. Hang on, this isn't Miami Vice, it's Miami Chase (I'm a silly sausage, aren't I?).

Cue the arrival of Lieutenant Ferrari, an undercover Drug Enforcement Agency operative with a very fast Ferrari F-40. The game starts with an APB being called on a pusher called Diago 'The Jackal' Angelo. Leap into your dream machine and burn some rubber (vroom, vroom).

The action's viewed from above so you can chase Mr Angelo in his very distinctive yellow vehicle, and with him out of the way you can move onto the next city (level).

COMING OR GOING?

My first impressions of Miami Chase weren't good. The difficulty level has been set way too high. I found it amazingly tough to control the car, and when I finally managed it, both ends of the vehicle looked so similar I didn't know whether I was coming or going (story of my life).

The cop cars are the biggest pain. 'Ello, 'otto, 'ello, who do we think we are then, sir, Sterling bleedin' Moss?

There's also a turbo charger, wheel blades, oil cannon and mono.

But time is very short. A timer counts down from 499 and if you fail to catch Angelo and he's out of the time limit you lose.

An added annoyance are the police cars that chase you around. They don't arrest you but, they lose you precious few seconds when they stop you for questioning (the thickies).

A life is also lost if you crash into too many buildings or other cars—a energy bar slowly decreases every time you have an argument with a hard object.

Once all the red cars are out of the way you can chase Mr Angelo in his very distinctive yellow vehicle, and with him out of the way you can move onto the next city (level).

EXPLoding CRETINS

When they explode, villains' cars often leave useful items behind: these include a turbo charger, wheel blades, oil cannon and more.

But time is very short. A timer counts down from 499 and should you fail to catch Angelo and he's going, within the time limit you lose a life.

An added annoyance are the police cars that chase you around.
The Untouchables

The 1920s were a tough time: prohibition was in full swing and Al Capone was the king of the underworld. In The Untouchables, you play Elliot Ness and his fearless band of 'Untouchables' (try it and you get a slap round the face) who must bust Capone's lucrative liquor distribution network.

- Save the baby from a fate worse than Jeremy Beadle (gasp!)
- Find that violin case quickly, the concert starts soon (ho ho)

The game follows the excellent film very closely, six levels packed with action, from collecting evidence damning Capone to killing his top hitman at the end of level six. Like the film there's never a let up in the pace; it's slam-bang action all the way as the player's thrown from one situation to the next. It was this that attracted me to the game when it was first reviewed. So with The Untouchables now available for four quid, if it isn't in your software library soon you're completely hatstand.

Bubble Bobble

One of my all-time favourite coin-op conversions reappears on the Speccy! There can't be many people who don't know the plot for Bubble Bobble, but if you've been down a pothole or on the moon for the last few years, here's a quick explanation...

Bub and Bob are two cute little dinosaurs who've been trapped by the evil Baron Von Blubba. The task ahead of them is, in theory, a simple one: blow bubbles to trap the various attacking creatures then pop them. When all the opponents have been vanquished, collect the fruit, candy and other assorted goodies for extra points, then fly off to the next of the hundred screens. In addition, there are bonus help thingies. For example, bursting a water-filled bubble sends a stream gushing over the platforms, washing away any creatures it picks up in its flow.

It's been a few years since I've played Bubble Bobble but it's still as addictive today, if a little slow. The first 50 or so screens are fairly easy to complete if you have a mate to help but the last few are real swines: the final battle with the Baron is a particular example.

In short, Bubble Bobble is one of the most playable platform games around!

aargh! Where's my sun shades? I've gone blind! Y'see punters, the horrible stripey road effect on Paris To Dakar isn't too kind on the old peepers. I wouldn't mind so much if the game was a more playable but it's a very average racer. True, there's a choice of three vehicles to drive, but what's the point of even trying to get from A to B (or Paris to Dakar) if the road is so treacherous you invariably wreck your vehicle within 30 seconds? Apart from the moving objects, there are boulders strewn all across the track. It's very difficult to miss them and I've given up trying (I just plough straight through them). It's all too uncontrollable to be playable.

Software companies seem to have seen the faults in their road racing games and attempted to rectify them. Take Paris To Dakar, for example. It gives the player the choice of three different vehicles to play with, and choice is what many earlier games were lacking.

The idea of the game is to race your chosen vehicle from Paris to Dakar, encountering various styles of road on route. You can choose to race on a motorbike, in a Metro (bizarre, isn't it?), or a truck. Each have different strengths and weaknesses and can cope better with certain types of terrain.

France is full of fast road action, Spain has rocky off-road racing and there are plenty of sand dunes to be jumped in the Sahara desert before you reach Dakar.

For the Wings of a Dove

Along the route there are icons to collect which improve your vehicle's performance. Turbos send it into super speedy mode (and probably the nearest bush), wings make you stay in the air longer when you go over a ramp, fuel keeps the tanks stocked and damage decrease the damage-o-meter by 15 points. As well as keeping your eyes on the road, the damage and fuel meters need to be monitored. If one of them falls to zero the game's over and you have to fly back to Paris in disgrace.

Just like author Lyndon Sharp's previous game, 750cc, the graphics are all in detailed monochrome and the game moves too fast. Most of the time all you can see is a jumble of sprites: rocks, bushes and icons zoom all over the place at such speeds you'll probably run into a boulder and miss the icons altogether!

The turbo is now on, what's the betting your bike goes into the back of that Metro?
Manchester United Europe

KRAISALIS £11.99 CASSETTE ONLY

Following the success of their previous Man United game, Krisalis now take the team to Europe for a super challenge. 'Oh, I'll just pack my bags and see it in Italy, then,' says a deluded MARK CASWELL. Oh no you don't, matey (come back 'ere!)

I knew they had to appear soon. Tons of footy games have finally descended upon us. The only problem is how to review this one — we've seen so many football games now I'm tempted to say 'Look, it's just like the other games: kick the ball up and down the pitch and score goals.'

But I don't want to be sacked and so here's a rundown of the game's features (ie, the twiddly bits you mess around with before you kick the ball).

EUROPE, 1992 AND ALL THAT

As 1992 is almost upon us, it's very cosmopolitan: it first asks you to pick a language, English, French, German, Italian or Spanish. Having shown off to your mates by picking a foreign language, choose a league from UEFA Cup, European Cup and Cup Winners' Cup.

Up pops the neat epliots

It's ten Icons allow you to work certain aspects of the game or view the league tables. You can change the formation and position of your players, set the match length, change the manager or team name, view the stats for your or your next opponents' team and, most

WILL

This footy sim looks great, with plenty of options and smart presentation graphics. Everything goes well until the managing bit is over and you play a match. This is where the game not only trips up but falls flat on its face and gets run over by a juggernaut. The players appear as blobs of colour, the control method's awkward... it's all very strange that the match is so poor when the rest of the features are well presented. The difficulty of matches is a bit weird: Man United, supposedly one of the best British teams, is often beaten by an unknown team from Luxembourg. Manchester United Europe could have been great but sadly it bites the dust due to the awful match.

I never knew Bryan Robson looked like that importantly, choose whether you want to play the match or just watch a print-out of the final score.

CLASHING MATCH

So, the match. Is it any cop? Not really. Whereas the option screens are very well planned and executed, the matchplay is poor. Viewed from above, the sprites are poorly defined and lack speed. Add to that the horrible player colours (red and yellow), which clash with the green of the pitch, and it's a strain on the eyes.

Control is sluggish — many times I swore at a player because he was creeping along like a snail. But we've one thing to be thankful for: a league system has been included so you can challenge a mate to see who can

Cult Software £2.99

The main menu with its ten options

You're a pure-bred player without a hint of leadership potential, totally at your manager's discretion as to whether you play or are dropped from the squad.

Strange as it may seem for a simplistic-looking football manager game, Professional Footballer is multi-load. In the first part, you choose your position, nationality and the year — anything up to 9999 AD! After another load, the main menu is presents ten options, including Training, Manager's Office, Save Game, Fixtures and so on — the usual malarkey.

Unfortunately, the only two features relevant to the game are Training and Go To Match. The others seem to be there just to look good on the menu and packaging; they merely allow you to view records and tables or make minor changes. Mind you, this does cut down on time between games: all you have to do is train twice then go to matchday.

This might be an asset if the training method and match weren't so peculiar. In training you're asked a football tactics question (eg. Free kick: what do you do?) and offered four possible answers. Unfortunately, none are necessarily correct. They have a percentage chance of being right next to them along with the number of stars awarded if you select the right answer. So, none of the answers are right but you need six stars to stay in the team. Oh dear. My luck hasn't held out that long yet and I always manage to get relegated to the subs in my first game and the reserve subs in my second. The match is basically the same, only in-between the questions you get little reports on what's happening.

And that's just about it. Professional Footballer has the makings of a neat game, but as it stands it's unambitious with an infuriating training method.

First Division Manager
Code Masters £3.99

Now our chums at Codies are having a crack at this football management lark and — ye gods! — it would appear they've had a taste of beginners' luck! WILL EVANS sits behind the manager's desk and checks out the field of play.

It's good to see that everyone's comments on footy management games have sunk into at least one company, Y'know, things like good presentation, graphics, ease-of-use and an interesting match.

Code Masters's First Division Manager's many features are accessed from a main, graphically attractive screen. The scene is your office and to access a section of the game you click the pointer on the appropriate piece of office equipment: telephone for phone calls, filing cabinet for records and secretary to go to match (a bit odd that one, never mind).

The man at the listening bank tells you where to go.

Yes, you're the manager of a first division soccer side, with the option of a superleague. You have to take your team to the top of the league, with the possibility of a cup win or two along the way. There are loads of features: buying transfers, team formations, real players, choice of club name, coaching advice, physio and phone calls to your bank manager and, of course, the match.

MATCH COMMENTS
Ah, the match. That's always a provoking point in management games. What format does it take here?

Well, it's a small picture of the players (bird's eye view) at the top of the screen to show you where the ball is and a running commentary at the bottom. Doesn't sound too good but it works surprisingly well and creates a great atmosphere.

Your team's performance can be improved by following the training tips your coach provides — just pick up the phone and give him a call. There's also a neat feature whereby you can call up the bank manager (he's ever so friendly) and ask for a loan of £25,000 at a very reasonable interest rate.

First Division Manager is a very good footy game (and unusually there isn't 'Simulator' at the end of the title). All the functions are easily accessed from the manager's desk — there's even a radio on top of the filing cabinet to switch on a jolly little tune! Even though the match is little more than a running commentary along the lines of 'so-and-so passes the ball to someone else', I found the game very absorbing. First Division Manager gets a big thumbs up from me: I'm over the moon, Brian. • 86%

Making it Fun

Many hours can be spent playing cruelly players and training them, or, if you like, you can buy world class players straight off. Much hilarity ensued when we put names of the CRASH team in the team: Nicko was the prime candidate for goalkeeper because he'd fill the net and any player called Lloyd Mangram seems to do uncannily well.

Make no mistake, for all its gloss and features First Division Manager is still a strategy-oriented game at Another footy game (must be the weather). Choose your team from the new British Superleague, decide whether you're a player manager or not, and get on with the game.

As in the other Cult games, everything is accessed from a main menu, but unlike even the most humble footy games, the options in 2-Player appear to have no effect on the game whatsoever.

You can't change much, apart from switching current team members with subs, who are useless anyway, so there's not much point, and some are strangely 'unavailable'. There's no training.

Once you have used all these features - a tedious process - you can look forward to an action-packed, nail-biting match.

Sadly not. The 'match' consists of messages flashing onto the screen: 'your team attacking' - 'your team defending' and 'your team midfield' and identical messages for the other side. Every so often it says 'The other team are shooting' and you get to see a tiny little sprite kick a meaningless options, it simply isn't entertaining.

At last, into the main game menu, from which you can pick your team, coach 'em, train 'em, tell 'em how to play, buy/sell players (free transfer, actually), view your opponent's record and gaze upon the division table. You can also view a marksman table and a list of offers but both are curiously empty.

Cult's latest of many football 'simulations' has numerous features (none of them are new, however), such as load/save game, pick your nationality and change the 126 other team's name. An 'interlude' follows while the computer puts all that together. Financial information is provided too, which I found mostly useless.

Behold! It is the Messiah!
No it's not (you fool), it's the next issue of CRASH, which hits the streets on August 15!

Next Month

When you've conquered the Land of Midnight, one problem lies ahead...

Doomdark's Revenge

The sequel to the stunning Lords of Midnight game comes to CRASH in full! Experience the wrath of Doomdark as he ravages through the Land of Icemark! More sophisticated, more tasks and more challenge with 6,000 locations and 48,000 panoramic views! You've gotta see it to believe it!

Hold on to that map!
Remember that map poster we gave you in Issue 90? You do? Good! Hope it's been useful for playing Lords of Midnight this issue. Don't lose it because on the flip side is the map of the Land of Icemark — you guide to getting around in Doomdark's Revenge. Without it you'll be up a gum tree without a banana (so don't use it to line the budgie's cage or anything).

Spy Vs Spy

From MAD comic, it's the craziest duo of madcap spies ever to appear! Can you escape from the embassy with the secret plans before your plane leaves? A CRASH Smash, really addictive and an amazingly playable arcade adventure — excellent for one player, astounding for two simultaneous players! It's yours next month!

Good day to you, dear Newsie! Could you please reserve/deliver to my doorstep for me a copy of the world's best Speccy mag (ie, CRASH). Thanks! You're an absolute lush-cake!

And, on Tech Tape

Psychedelia
A light synthesiser to help you create funky flashing graphics to rave with! Create groovy patterns, spooky light shows and all sorts of colourful effects! It's like dancing with rainbows, swimming through a pool of glistening stars (it's like completely outta this world, man!). Rave with it next month!

Phew!
Yes, it's certainly all happening and we'll reveal how to beat Lords of Midnight (in case you're stuck). Plus so much more! Be at the newsies on August 15 and grab a copy of CRASH — the magazine that goes 'Ping!' when it's finished!
